The Crime & Justice Research Group in the School of Law and Social Sciences (LSS) at LSBU is organising this event to facilitate public engagement and discussion on the theme Youth Crime and (In)Justice.

At a time when young Londoners are centre stage in the media as victims and perpetrators of crime, we ask...

What are the issues behind the headlines?

What could be the solutions?

What does 'justice' look like for a young person?

In this public forum, staff, students, voluntary organisations, and community representatives will share stories, ask questions about the headlines, and consider possible futures. Our speakers include:

- Dr Rashid Aziz, Senior Lecturer in Criminology, LSBU
- Dr Charlotte Clements, Lecturer in History, LSBU
- Representative from Joint Enterprise Not Guilty By Association (Jengba) an organisation campaigning for wrongful joint enterprise convictions to be overturned.

Come along and join the discussion on this important and topical issue!
